

Can We Simply Accept?

The world is getting smaller, and many of us who once were separated are now much more aware of each other. We have many different customs and points of view, some of which are in conflict. We must learn how to live together in this smaller world. If we are to have a real peace together, then we must learn to respect our differing viewpoints and ways of life. We must be able to move beyond mere tolerance to mutual understanding and appreciation. This will help us and, really, all the world. Many traditions have at their core the love of Divinity. Imagine if we could rise to the level of love - of loving each other. Imagine what might happen if we learn to love all creation - and that includes all of us!

Alan Bachman, Salt Lake City, Utah